Preface

THIS volume presents detailed establishment data for U.S. affiliates of foreign companies in 2002. Data, disaggregated according to the industry of each plant or other business location, are presented on the number, employment, payroll, and shipments or sales of the establishments of U.S. affiliates. For manufacturing establishments, data are presented on a number of additional items, including value added, employee benefits, hourly wage rates of production workers, and expenditures for plant and equipment. In addition to data by industry, data are disaggregated by state and by country of owner.

The data were obtained as the result of a project that links Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) enterprise, or company, data on foreign direct investment in the United States with the Census Bureau's establishment data for all U.S. companies. The project was authorized by the Foreign Direct Investment and International Financial Data Improvements Act of 1990.

Data from the project for 1987, 1992, and 1997 covering manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments and for each year from 1988–91 covering manufacturing establishments were published earlier (in separate volumes for each year). Several articles analyzing the establishment data have been published in the SURVEY OF CURRENT BUSINESS, BEA's monthly journal.

Methodology

The data in this volume cover the operations of establishments of U.S. affiliates of foreign companies in 2002. A U.S. affiliate is a U.S. business enterprise that is owned 10 percent or more, directly or indirectly, by a foreign person.[1]

The volume is divided into two parts. The first (part A) covers all industries and presents data on the number, employment, payroll, and shipments or sales of the establishments of U.S. affiliates (hereinafter referred to as "foreign-owned establishments"); it includes data by detailed industry for nonmanufacturing and totals for manufacturing as a whole. The second part (part M) covers manufacturing establishments and presents these data items and additional items, including value added, total compensation of employees, employee benefits, hourly wage rates of production workers, and expenditures for new plant and equipment. In addition to data by industry, both parts present data by state and by country of owner.

The data for this volume were derived from the Census Bureau's 2002 Economic Census and the Business Register.[2] They are the result of a project that links Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) enterprise, or company, data on foreign direct investment in the United States with the Census Bureau's establishment data for all U.S. companies.[3] The project was authorized by the Foreign Direct Investment and International Financial Data Improvements Act of 1990.

This volume updates data for foreign-owned manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments published in Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Establishment Data for 1997, in Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Establishment Data for 1992, and in Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Establishment Data for 1987, and data for foreign-owned manufacturing establishments for 1988–91 published in Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Establishment Data for Manufacturing, in separate volumes for each year.[4] In tables A and B, the 2002 and 1997 data for selected items for broad North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) industry groups are compared, and in tables C–F, the 2002, 1997, 1992, and 1987 data for geographic areas and countries and by state are compared.[5]

The establishment data from the link project complement BEA's enterprise data for U.S. affiliates. BEA's enterprise data are needed for analyzing the overall significance of, and trends in, direct investment and for compiling the U.S. international transactions accounts, the international investment position of the United States, and the U.S. national income and product accounts. The data on positions and transactions between U.S. affiliates and their foreign parents that are used in compiling the national and international accounts exist only at the enterprise level. Analyses of some topics, such as profits and taxes, are meaningful only at that level. Furthermore, balance sheets and income statements containing the critical, nonduplicative financial and operating data needed for examining these topics exist only at the enterprise level.

The establishment data facilitate analyses of the activities and importance of foreign-owned U.S. companies in specific, detailed industries. Each establishment of an enterprise can be classified separately in the establishment data, while BEA's enterprise data classify the entire enterprise, however diversified, in one industry. Furthermore, the level of industry classification can be much more detailed for individual establishments than is appropriate for consolidated enterprises whose operations may span many narrowly defined industries. As a result, foreign-owned establishments can be classified into over 1,000 industries, while BEA's

1. "Person" is broadly defined to include any individual, corporation, branch, partnership, associated group, association, estate, trust, or other organization and any government (including any corporation, institution, or other entity or instrumentality of a government). The data are not adjusted for percentage of foreign ownership. Thus, for example, the employment data shown here include all employees at establishments of each U.S. affiliate even though the foreign investor may own as little as 10 percent of the affiliate. However, most affiliates are majority owned; according to Bureau of Economic Analysis data, U.S. affiliates that are majority owned (that is, affiliates that are owned more than 50 percent by foreign direct investors) accounted for 92 percent of all employment by U.S. affiliates in 2002.

2. The Census Bureau's 2002 Economic Census covered the following 2002 North American Industry Classification System sectors: Mining (21), Utilities (22), Construction (23), Manufacturing (31-33), Wholesale Trade (42), Retail Trade (44-45), Transportation and Warehousing (48-49), Information (51), Finance and Insurance (52), Real Estate and Rental and Leasing (53), Professional, Scientific, and Technical Services (54), Management of Companies and Enterprises (55), Administrative and Support and Waste Management and Remediation Services (56), Educational Services (61), Health Care and Social Assistance (62), Arts, Entertainment, and Recreation (71), Accommodation and Food Services (72), and Other Services (except public administration) (81). The census did not cover Agriculture, Forestry, Fishing, and Hunting (11) or Public Administration (92).

3. An establishment is a single physical location where business is conducted or where services or industrial operations are performed. See the section "Definitions."

4. The following Survey of Current Business articles analyze the establishment data: "Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Establishment Data for 1987" (October 1992), "Characteristics of Foreign-Owned U.S. Manufacturing Establishments" (January 1994), "Differences in Foreign-Owned U.S. Manufacturing Establishments by Country of Owner" (March 1996), and "Regional Patterns in the Location of Foreign-Owned U.S. Manufacturing Establishments" (May 1999). The articles can be accessed online at <www.bea.gov>.

5. In the 1987 and 1992 data, establishments are classified into industries that are based on the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC), and data by industry for those years may not be comparable with the data for 1997 and 2002 that are classified by industry based on NAICS (see the section "Country and Industry Classification").

foreign-owned enterprises are classified into only about 200 industries.

The tables in each part of this volume are organized into three groups. The first group gives an overview of the data by industry, by country, and by state. The second group presents detailed industry tables for individual states. The third group presents detailed industry tables for selected major investor countries. Some of the tables show totals for key items of all U.S. establishments and the share of the all-U.S. totals accounted for by foreign-owned establishments.[6]

6. Data for all U.S. establishments are from the 2002 Economic Census data set available on the Census Bureau's Web site at <www.census.gov>.

How the Link Was Done

BEA and the Census Bureau exchanged their data in order to identify and obtain data for those U.S. establishments on the Business Register that are foreign-owned. The Business Register is a file of all U.S. companies and their establishments; it includes names, addresses, and other identification information as well as key economic data obtained from the Census Bureau surveys and from administrative records.

Foreign-owned establishments in the Business Register were identified primarily through a computer match of the Employer Identification Numbers (EINs) that are reported on BEA's surveys of foreign direct investment in the United States and included in the Census Bureau's Business Register. EINs are used by companies and their establishments use when they file Federal and state payroll and income taxes. For enterprises that failed to link in the computer match of EINs, other enterprise identification information, such as names and addresses, was used to match the BEA enterprises to Census Bureau establishments. The data items that are available in the Business Register in economic census years are the number of establishments, employment, payroll, and shipments or sales.

To gather the additional data items presented for the manufacturing establishments, the foreign-owned establishments were linked to the 2002 Economic Census–Manufacturing. Thus, the detailed data items—such as value added, capital expenditures, and the cost of materials—come from this.

Estimation of Data for Manufacturing

Some data in the 2002 Economic Census–Manufacturing, and therefore some data for foreign-owned manufacturing establishments, are estimated.[7] Published statistics from the census cover all manufacturing establishments in the United States. However, to reduce the reporting burden, small establishments are exempt from reporting, and data for them are estimated or obtained from administrative records. In addition, estimates are made for reports not received in time for publication and for data items that respondents are not able to complete. For establishments that require

7. Data for the four items presented for nonmanufacturing establishments are either reported in the Economic Census or are obtained from the administrative records of the Internal Revenue Service.

Note. Data are classified by North American Industry Classification (NAICS) industry. Data for foreign-owned establishments are also available for 1987–1992, but are classified by Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) industry. The 1987–1992 data are available on BEA's Web site at www.bea.gov.

1. The all-U.S. establishment data that were used in calculating these percentages are from the Economic Censuses.
2. For 2002, Auxiliaries, except managing offices are classified in the industry (and sector) that reflects their activities (see the text).

estimation, selected data items, including employment and payroll, are obtained from the administrative records of the Internal Revenue Service. Data items that are not available from administrative records are estimated using industry-average relationships. For foreign-owned manufacturing establishments, the percentage of the data that is estimated varies depending on the item, the industry, the country, and the state (tables G–I). For example, for total manufacturing, 8 percent of the cost of materials and 11 percent of production worker wages are estimated. Among three-digit manufacturing industries, the percentage of production worker wages that is estimated ranges from 4 percent for petroleum and coal products manufacturing to 44 percent for beverage and tobacco product manufacturing.

Evaluation of the Link

The data for foreign-owned establishments cover only establishments with employment.[8] On the basis of BEA data for all industries, U.S. affiliates that linked had 5,889,700 employees (table J, column 1) and accounted for 97 percent of the employment of all U.S. affiliates in 2002. Virtually all of the large BEA affiliates linked to Census Bureau establishments.[9] Affiliates that failed to link were generally small and together accounted for only 180,800 employees. In general, affiliates failed to link to a Census Bureau establishment because the two agencies had different EINs or other identification information for a given company or because of the absence of valid EINs or other identification information.

BEA and Census Bureau Data Compared

For affiliates that linked, the employment total based on Census Bureau establishment data, at 5,895,700 (table J, column 2) was very close to the total based on BEA enterprise data. The –6,000-employee difference (table J, column 32) represents the net effect of differences in coverage, definition, and classification. This section summarizes the key differences.

Coverage differences

The scope of the foreign-owned establishment data is consistent with the 2002 Economic Census and as a result, the industry coverage of the establishment data is somewhat narrower than that of BEA's enterprise data.

8. More specifically, the data cover any foreign-owned establishment that had one or more paid employees some time during 2002.

9. Some U.S. affiliates that linked to Census Bureau establishments through the Business Register were in industries or geographic areas that were not covered by the 2002 Economic Census as described in the next section.

The establishment data do not cover agriculture, forestry, fishing, and hunting (NAICS sector 11), air transportation by large certificated passenger carriers (part of NAICS 4811), railroad transportation (NAICS 482), and funds, trusts, and other financial vehicles except real estate investment trusts (NAICS 5251, 52591, and 52592) because these industries were out of scope for the 2002 Economic Census.[10] The BEA data indicate that in 2002 affiliates in these industries had 14,000 employees.

10. Real estate investment trusts (NAICS 52593) is the only industry in the funds, trusts, and other financial vehicles subsector that is covered by the establishment data.

NOTE. The industry coverage of the 1997 and 2002 data differs somewhat from the 1992 and 1987 data (see the text).

1. The all-U.S. establishment data that were used in calculating these percentages are from the Economic Censuses and the Census Bureau's County Business Patterns.

The geographic coverage of the Census Bureau's economic census data for foreign-owned establishments is somewhat narrower than that of BEA's enterprise data. The Census Bureau data cover the 50 States and the District of Columbia. The BEA data also cover Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and other outlying U.S. areas; in the BEA data, employment by U.S. affiliates in these areas was 30,000 in 2002, less than 1 percent of the total employment of foreign-owned establishments.

Definitional differences

BEA data are reported on a fiscal year basis, whereas the Census Bureau data are generally on a calendar

Note. The industry coverage of the 1997 and 2002 data differs somewhat from the 1992 and 1987 data (see the text).

1. The all-U.S. establishment data that were used in calculating these percentages are from the Economic Censuses and the Census Bureau's County Business Patterns.

year basis.[11] As a result, for some industries, BEA totals for certain items, such as compensation of employees, can differ from the totals for similar items based on the Census Bureau data for foreign-owned establishments.

In cases where similar items are available from both agencies, such as employment and value added, the BEA definitions sometimes differ from those used by the Census Bureau. These differences are noted in the section "Definitions."

11. In BEA's surveys, a U.S. affiliate's fiscal year is the financial reporting year for the affiliate that ended in that calendar year. In BEA's 2002 benchmark survey of foreign direct investment in the United States, affiliates with fiscal years ending in the last quarter of the calendar year accounted for almost three-quarters of total U.S. affiliate employment. See U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis, Foreign Direct Investment in the United States: Final Results From the 2002 Benchmark Survey (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, October 2006).

Classification differences

As noted earlier, most BEA data for U.S. affiliates are classified by the primary industry of the consolidated enterprise, whereas the Census Bureau data are classified by the primary industry of each establishment within the enterprise. Affiliates are often highly diversified, and many of them have activities in industries other than the one that applies to the consolidated enterprise as a whole. As a result, totals for industries in the BEA data often differ significantly from totals for the same industries in the Census Bureau data. In table J, additional information on how differences in classification affect the industry distribution of the data are broken down by each industry's enterprise-based employment total into the industries of the establishments; column 1 shows the industry distribution of

UBO Ultimate beneficial owner

UBO is that person that ultimately owns or controls, and therefore ultimately derives the benefits from owning or controlling, a U.S. affiliate. Specifically, the UBO is that person, proceeding up a U.S. affiliate's ownership chain, beginning with and including the foreign parent, that is not owned more than 50 percent by another person. The foreign parent is the first person outside the United States in a U.S. affiliate's ownership chain that has a direct investment interest in the U.S. affiliate. (See "General Notes to the Tables" for additional details.)

Establishments are classified into industries on the basis of definitions in the 2002 revision to the North American Industry Classification Manual

(D) Suppressed to avoid disclosure of data for individual companies.
1. Includes both establishments that reported in the Economic Census–Manufacturing and establishments whose data were estimated.

("2002 NAICS"). In the NAICS, an industry is generally defined as a group of establishments that have similar production processes.

Comparability with Previously Published Data

The 1997 data for foreign-owned establishments were based on the 1997 NAICS. While most industry classifications remain unchanged, the 2002 NAICS includes substantial revisions within the construction and wholesale trade sectors and a number of revisions for the retail trade and information sectors. Additionally, for 2002, data for enterprise support establishments (those functioning primarily to support the activities of their company's operating establishments, such as a warehouse or a research and development laboratory) are included in the industry (sector) that reflects their activities (such as warehousing). For 1997, such establishments were termed "auxiliaries," and data for them were excluded from industry totals. Instead, data for auxiliaries were shown separately in the category "Auxiliaries, except managing offices."[12] In both the 2002 and 1997 data, corporate, subsidiary, and regional managing offices are classified in NAICS sector 55 "Management of companies and enterprises."

The 1987–92 data on foreign-owned establishments were classified by industry on the basis of 1987 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC). In the SIC, classification is based on the production processes in some industries and on the type of products in others. At the highest level of aggregation, 20 industry groups—or sectors—in the NAICS replace the 10 industry divisions in the SIC. Several of the NAICS sectors do not correspond directly to these SIC industry divisions. For example, the NAICS information sector consists of industry groups drawn from several different SIC industry divisions.[13]

Particular care should be taken in comparing data for 1997 and 2002 with data for 1987–92 for retail trade, wholesale trade, and manufacturing, which are sector titles used in NAICS and division titles used in the SIC, but the data cover somewhat different groups of industries. For example, in NAICS, manufacturing includes several industries—such as bakeries, candy stores where candy is made on the premises, custom tailors, makers of custom draperies, and tire retreading—that are not included in manufacturing in the SIC. Conversely, the NAICS manufacturing sector does not cover logging and portions of publishing that are included in manufacturing in the SIC.

In addition to the differences in classification, the industry coverage of the 2002 and 1997 data is somewhat narrower than that of the 1987 and 1992 data. Agricultural services, forestry, and fishing (NAICS 113, 114, and 115), air transportation by large certified passenger carriers (part of NAICS 4811), and "funds, trusts, and other financial vehicles, except real estate investment trusts" (NAICS 5251, 52591, and 52592) are not covered by the 2002 and the 1997 foreign-owned establishment data, whereas they are covered by the 1987 and the 1992 data. Logging is not covered by the 1997 and 2002 data because in the NAICS, logging is included in forestry, whereas logging is covered by the 1987 and 1992 data because in the SIC, it is included in manufacturing.

In the 1997 and 2002 data for foreign-owned manufacturing establishments, employee compensation is disaggregated into total payroll and total benefits. In the 1988–92 data, total benefits were further broken down into "social security and other legally required payments" and "employer payments and other programs."[14] This additional detail for benefits is not shown in the 1997 and 2002 data.

Definitions

The definitions used in this publication are the same as those used in the 2002 Economic Census, but in some cases, the corresponding definition in the 2002 Economic Census definitions is titled differently or contain more detail. In addition, in tabulations of the data, the titles for some items in the Economic Census may differ from those used in this publication. The 2002 Economic Census publications are available at the Census Bureau's Web site at <www.census.gov>.[15] All but five of the definitions are for items presented only for establishments in manufacturing. The five exceptions are the definitions for auxiliary establishments, employees, establishments, payroll, and value of shipments or sales; these definitions apply to items

13. Specifically, the NAICS information sector includes publishing, which is included in the SIC manufacturing division; "motion picture and sound recording industries" and "information and data processing services," which are included in the SIC services division; and broadcasting and communications, which are included in the SIC transportation, communication, and electric, gas, and sanitary services division. For additional information on the differences between the NAICS and the SIC classifications, see Office of Management and Budget, North American Industry Classification System: United States, 1997 (Washington, DC: Bernan Press, 1998) and U.S. Census Bureau, 1997 Economic Census: Bridge Between NAICS and SIC (Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office, 2000) or <www.census.gov/epcd/ec97brdg>.

14. Employer payments and other programs consist of employer payments for voluntary employee benefit programs that are not specifically required by legislation.

available for establishments in all industries. Where significant differences exist, the definitions used here are compared with those used for the corresponding items in the BEA data.

Auxiliary establishments

Auxiliary establishments are central administrative offices of companies with more than one establishment. A central administrative office is an establishment primarily engaged in management, general administrative, and support functions performed centrally for other establishments in the same company. Support functions include research, development, and testing; warehousing and storage; maintenance and repair; and other miscellaneous services. Managing offices are included in NAICS sector 55, "Management of companies and enterprises." All other auxiliary establishments are included in the industry and sector that reflects their activity.

Benefits

Data on benefits are presented for manufacturing establishments. Benefits, together with payroll, are included in compensation of employees. Benefits consists of social security and other legally required payments and employer payments for voluntary programs.

Cost of materials

Data on cost of materials are presented for manufacturing establishments. Cost of materials consists of direct charges actually paid or payable for items consumed or put into production during the year, including freight charges and other direct charges incurred by the establishment in acquiring these materials. It includes the cost of materials or fuel consumed, whether purchased by the individual establishment from other companies, transferred to it from other establishments of the same company, or withdrawn from inventory during the year. The major components of cost of materials are the following: (1) Raw materials, semifinished goods, parts, containers, scrap, and supplies put into production or used as operating supplies or for repair and maintenance during the year, (2) electricity purchased, (3) fuels consumed for heat, power, or generation of electricity, (4) work done by others on materials or parts furnished by manufacturing establishments (contract work), and (5) products bought and resold in the same condition.

Cost of materials excludes purchased services. Like value of shipments, totals for cost of materials for major industry groups and for total manufacturing include large amounts of duplication (see definition of value of shipments).

Cost of purchased fuels and electricity

Data on cost of purchased fuels and electricity are presented for manufacturing establishments. Cost of purchased fuels and electricity consists of the cost of fuels consumed for heat, power, or generation of electricity whether purchased from the establishments of other companies, transferred from other establishments of the same company, or withdrawn from inventory during the year, and the cost of purchased electricity. The cost and quantity of purchased electricity represent the amounts actually used during the year.

Employees

In all industries except construction and manufacturing, the number of employees is the number of full-time and part-time employees who were on the payroll in the pay period including March 12.

For construction, the number of employees is the average number of all full-time and part-time employees on the payroll for the four pay periods including the 12th of March, May, August, and November. For manufacturing, the number of employees is the average number of all full-time and part-time production workers on the payroll for the four pay periods including the 12th of March, May, August, and November plus the number of other full-time and part-time employees on the payroll for the pay period including March 12.

Employees include salaried officers and executives of corporations; they exclude proprietors and partners of unincorporated businesses.

The number of employees for foreign-owned establishments differs somewhat from that for U.S. affiliates in the BEA enterprise data because of differences in the date at which employment is measured. In the enterprise data, the number of employees is the number of full-time and part-time employees who were on the payroll at the end of the enterprise's fiscal year.[16]

Establishment

An establishment is a single physical location where business is conducted or where services or industrial operations are performed. The data cover every establishment that has one or more paid employees some time during 2002. The number of establishments is the number that was in business at any time during 2002 (regardless of their status at the beginning or end of the year).

Expenditures for new plant and equipment

Data on expenditures for new plant and equipment are presented for manufacturing establishments. Expenditures for new plant and equipment consist of expenditures for (1) plants under construction, (2) permanent additions and major alterations to manufacturing establishments, and (3) new machinery and equipment used for replacement and for additions to plant capacity if they were of the type for which depreciation accounts were ordinarily maintained. They include expenditures for assets acquired under capital leases. They exclude expenditures for facilities owned by the Federal Government but operated under contract by private companies and plant and equipment furnished at no cost to the manufacturer by communities and nonprofit organizations.

Gross book value of depreciable assets

Data on gross book value of depreciable assets are presented for manufacturing establishments. The gross book value of depreciable assets is the original-cost value of fixed assets (structures and machinery and equipment) in place at the end of the year. The values shown represent the actual cost of the assets at the time they were acquired, including all costs incurred in making the assets usable (such as transportation and installation). Included as depreciable assets are all buildings, structures, machinery, and equipment (production, office, and transportation equipment) for which depreciation reserves are maintained. Excluded are nondepreciable capital assets, including inventories and intangible assets, such as timber and mineral rights.

Other workers

Other workers are nonproduction employees of the establishment, including those engaged in factory supervision above the line-supervisor level. Data on these workers are presented for manufacturing establishments. They include employees in the following activities: sales (including drivers and salespersons), sales delivery (highway truck drivers and their helpers), advertising, credit, collection, installation and servicing, clerical and routine office functions, executive, purchasing, financial, legal, personnel, professional, and technical. All employees engaged in the construction of major additions or alterations to the plant and used as a separate work force are included. (See definition of production workers.)

Payroll

Payroll and benefits are included in compensation of employees. Payroll consists of the gross earnings paid in the calendar year of all employees on the payroll of the establishment. It includes salaries, wages, commissions, dismissal pay, bonuses, vacation and sick leave pay, and compensation-in-kind, before deductions of employees' social security contributions, withholding taxes, group insurance, union dues, and savings bonds. It also includes salaries of officers and executives of corporations. It excludes payments to proprietors and partners of unincorporated concerns, to members of the armed forces, and to pensioners carried on the active payrolls of establishments.

The definition of payroll for foreign-owned establishments is equivalent to the definition of wages and salaries as shown for U.S. affiliates in the BEA enterprise data. Totals for the two measures may differ because among other things the Census Bureau payroll data are measured on a calendar year basis, whereas the BEA wages and salaries data are measured on a fiscal year basis.

Production workers

Data on production workers are presented for manufacturing establishments. Production workers are 16. In the enterprise data, a U.S. affiliate's 2002 fiscal year was defined to be the affiliate's financial reporting year that ended in calendar year 2002. If an affiliate's end-of-year employment was unusually high or low because of temporary factors, a number reflecting normal operations was requested.

workers engaged in manual work and production operations or performing functions closely associated with production operations. They are workers up through the line-supervisor level at an operating establishment who are engaged in fabricating, processing, assembling, inspecting, receiving, storing, handling, packing, warehousing, shipping (but not delivering), maintenance, repair, janitorial and guard services, product development, auxiliary production for plants own use (for example, power plants), recordkeeping, and other services closely associated with these production operations at the establishment (see the definition of "other workers.")

Production worker hours

Data on production worker hours are presented for manufacturing establishments. Production worker hours consist of hours worked, including actual overtime hours (not straight-time-equivalent hours). They exclude hours paid for vacations, holidays, or sick leave.

Shipments or sales

Data on shipments or sales are presented for all industries covered by the 2002 Economic Census.

Definitions of shipments or sales by sector

Mining. The item shown is the value of "shipments and receipts." Shipments include all products physically shipped from the establishment. Receipts include contract work done for others, excluding custom milling and the value of products bought and sold without further processing.

Utilities. The item shown is "revenue." Revenue includes all business activities.

Construction. The item shown is the "value of construction work." Construction work consists of the value of all work performed by general contractors, special trades contractors, and subcontractors and of land development and improvement work.

Manufacturing. The item shown is the value of "shipments." Shipments covers the net selling values, f.o.b. plant (exclusive of freight and taxes), of all products shipped as well as miscellaneous receipts. Totals for value of shipments for major industry groups within manufacturing and for total manufacturing include large amounts of duplication because the products of some industries are used as materials by others. This duplication partly results from the combination of related industries that represent successive stages in the production of a finished manufactured product. Examples are the combination of flour mills and bakeries in the food group and of pulp mills and paper mills in the paper and allied products group.

Wholesale or retail trade. The item shown is "sales." Sales includes sales of merchandise and receipts for delivery, installation, maintenance, repair, alteration, storage, equipment rental, and other services.

Transportation and warehousing. The item shown is "revenue." Revenue includes all business activities including, commissions and fees for arranging the transportation of freight.

Finance and insurance. The item shown is "revenue." Revenue includes net premiums earned by insurance carriers, commissions and fees from all sources, net investment income, interest, dividends, and the total value of service contracts, royalties, and dues and assessments from members.

Real estate and rental and leasing. The item shown is "revenue." Revenue includes commissions and fees, rents, net investment income, interest, dividends, and royalties.

Information. The item shown is "receipts." Receipts include income for services rendered and from sales of merchandise and royalties, license fees, and other payments from the marketing of intangible products.

Management of companies and enterprises. The item shown is "revenue" or "sales." For holding companies, the item is revenue. Revenue primarily includes net investment income, interest, and dividends. For corporate, subsidiary, and regional managing offices the item is sales. Sales is defined as income received from sources outside the company.

Service sectors. The item shown is "receipts." Receipts includes receipts for services rendered, for the leasing of facilities and equipment, and for the sale of merchandise by service establishments. It also includes the total value of service contracts, amounts received for work subcontracted to others, and dues and assessments from members and affiliates.

Accommodation and food services. The item shown is "sales." Sales include sales from consumers for services rendered, from the use of facilities, and from merchandise sold.

Census Bureau shipments versus BEA sales

The shipments or sales measure shown here for foreign-owned establishments differs significantly from the "sales" measure in the BEA enterprise data for U.S. affiliates. Because the shipments or sales data shown here are based on data reported at the establishment level, they include the value of shipments or sales between establishments within the same enterprise, and the shipments or sales of the establishment to outsiders. The BEA sales measure excludes shipments or sales between establishments within an enterprise, because the BEA data are reported on a consolidated enterprise basis, and on this basis, only sales by the consolidated enterprise to outside individuals or firms are counted.[17] As a result of this difference, the shipments or sales total for an enterprise obtained by summing across all establishments of the enterprise based on the Census Bureau data could be significantly higher than the sales total for the same enterprise based on the BEA data. Another difference is that like payroll data, the Census Bureau measure is on a calendar year basis while the BEA measure is on a fiscal year basis.

Value added by manufacture

Value added by manufacture is derived by subtracting the cost of materials (including materials, supplies, containers, fuel, purchased electricity, and cost of contract work) from the value of shipments (products manufactured and receipts for services rendered). The result of this calculation is adjusted by the addition of value added by merchandising operations (the difference between the sales value and the cost of merchandise sold without further manufacture, processing, or assembly) and the net change between beginning- and end-of-year finished goods and work-in-process inventories.

Value added by manufacture avoids the duplication in the value of shipments that results when the products of one establishment are used as materials by another. Value added by manufacture is considered the best measure available for assessing the relative economic importance of manufacturing among industries and geographic areas.

Value added by manufacture and BEA's enterprise measure of value added are similar, but they differ in definition and in method of computation. BEA's value added measure is calculated as the sum of (1) factor incomes (that is, compensation of employees, profits, and net interest paid), (2) nonfactor income (that is, indirect business taxes), and (3) consumption of fixed capital (that is, depreciation). Value added by manufacture is calculated as the difference between the value of output (value of shipments and the change in finished goods and work-in-process inventories) and the cost of materials consumed. The two measures differ because purchased services are excluded from BEA value added but are included in value added by manufacture and because sales and excise and other indirect taxes are included in BEA value added but are excluded from value added by manufacture. Additionally, BEA value added reflects inventory change valued at replacement cost, whereas value added by manufacture reflects inventory change valued at book value.

Confidentiality

The Census Bureau and BEA are prohibited by law from publishing data that disclose the identity of, or information reported by, individual companies. In this publication, data in each cell were tested to determine whether they should be suppressed to maintain confidentiality. The data on numbers of establishments and their distribution by employment size class are not considered confidential, and these items are shown for countries, industries, and states. For employment of foreign-owned establishments, cells that are suppressed contain letter symbols indicating the employment size range for the cell. For all other items, suppressed cells are indicated by a "(D)."

Many tables in this publication present data in great detail by industry. In tables that cross-classify the detailed industry data by, for example, state or investing country, many cells may be suppressed. The large number of suppressed cells is an unavoidable consequence of distributing data for a relatively small number of companies among a large number of highly detailed categories while upholding the legal requirement to preserve the confidentiality of the data of individual companies.

17. The consolidated enterprise includes all U.S. businesses that are owned more than 50 percent by the reporting company and in which the foreign owner of the reporting company has a direct investment ownership interest. The consolidation excludes all other U.S. businesses and all foreign business enterprises owned by the reporting company.

Appendix

The Relation of Detail to Totals in the Data Tabulation

Subtotals for industry sectors, subsectors, and industry groups may not equal the sum of the more detailed industry data included in these subtotals. One reason is that the industry classifications of some establishments included on the Business Register are not known at the detailed industry level. This occurs when the Census Bureau receives reports for new establishments but does not receive the information needed to classify them at the detailed industry level. In such cases, data for the establishments may be included in the sector, subsector, or industry group subtotals but may not be included in the more detailed data below those subtotals.

In tables for individual states, industry subtotals may not equal the sum of the more detailed industries shown below those subtotals because some industries may not be shown. The industries not shown are those not shown in the 2002 Economic Census publications reports because employment in them is small. In addition, in the state tables and in the tables that show data by industry for individual countries, small cells are not shown. The following table shows the threshold number of employees below which the industry subtotals and individual industries are not shown.

Tables	Number
A2.1 and M2.1[1]	250
A3.15–A3.21 and M3.15–M3.21[2]	100
A3.1–A3.7	1,000
M3.1–M3.7[3]	2,500

1. Except for sectors; all sector totals are shown in these tables.
2. Except for total manufacturing, which is shown.
3. Only applies to six-digit industries; all industry subtotals are shown.

However, data for an unpublished industry are nevertheless included in the total shown for the broader industry group of which it is a part.

For all U.S. establishments, totals shown for the United States as a whole do not equal the sum across states because Economic Census CD–ROM files that provide data by detailed industry were the sources for the totals for the United States as a whole, whereas the CD–ROM files that provide data by state were the sources of the data by state. In some cases, the files that contain data by industry reflect late revisions to the data that were not incorporated in the files that contain data by state. In addition, state totals for all U.S. establishments were computed by summing across industry sectors. For both foreign-owned establishments and all U.S. establishments, the sum of the data across states for some industries may not equal the industry totals shown in tables that present data for the United States as a whole because some industries may not be shown for individual states.

General Notes to the Tables

- Detail may not add to totals. See the appendix for more information.
- The industries covered are those that were in scope for the 2002 Economic Census (see the "Methodology").
- A "foreign-owned establishment" is an establishment that is owned by a U.S. affiliate of a foreign company. A U.S. affiliate is a U.S. business enterprise that is owned 10 percent or more, directly or indirectly, by a foreign person (in the broad, legal sense, including a company).
- For tables that do not show every industry or country, individual industries or countries included in an industry or country group shown in the heading or stub may be ascertained by referring to table A1.1 (for nonmanufacturing industries) and table M1.1 (for manufacturing industries) or tables A1.7 and M1.7 (for countries).
- In tables that show data by industry, "industry" refers to the industry of the establishment, unless otherwise noted.
- The European Union (15) comprises Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, and the United Kingdom.
- OPEC is the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Its members are Algeria, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, and Venezuela.
- A UBO, or ultimate beneficial owner, is the person that ultimately owns or controls, and therefore ultimately derives the benefits from owning or controlling, a U.S. affiliate. More specifically, a UBO is that person, proceeding up a U.S. affiliate's ownership chain, beginning with and including the foreign parent, that is not owned more than 50 percent by another person. A "foreign parent" is the first person outside the United States in a U.S. affiliate's ownership chain that has a direct investment interest in the affiliate. Note that a UBO, unlike a foreign parent, may be a U.S. person. A U.S. affiliate (and its establishments) must, by definition, have a foreign parent (that is, a foreign person must own at least 10 percent of it), even though the UBO may be a U.S. person. (For example, if a British company directly owns a U.S. affiliate but itself is owned by a U.S. company, the affiliate's foreign parent would be a British person, but its UBO would be a U.S. person.)
- In tables that show employment of foreign-owned establishments, cells that have been suppressed to avoid disclosure of data of individual companies contain a letter representing the employment size range. The size ranges are given at the bottom of the tables. Cells for all other items that have been suppressed contain a "(D)."
- An asterisk (*) in a table indicates a nonzero value of less than $500,000.
- In tables that show inventories or gross book value of depreciable assets, the values shown are for the end of 2002 unless otherwise noted.

See the Footnotes to the Tables on pages 443 and 444.
